Presidents Report

March 2021

So far this year's been up and down thankfully covid had stayed out of the South so far at least it's looking hopeful well all get out for a Roar hunt this year. I'm sure there'll be a free big trips planned good luck to everyone heading out Remember stay safe identify your target beyond all doubt.

We held our first Roar Competition on Sunday the 7th was great to see everyone despite the miserable weather, it was good fun and a good afternoon to chew the fat on spot x where the stags are Roaring and where they are not rumour has it there's a few starting to make some noise.... I have to say a big Thanks to our sponsors they have been very generous in supplying the prizes for the Kids Roaring section of the competitions it's great to see the Kids come along and have some fun. Likewise I'm sure all the adults had a good time to.

Thanks to Gerald and his team at Hunting and Fishing Invercargill

Craig and his team at Southern adventure

Craig and all the team at Woodlands butchery

Nathan and the Crew from Dawson Electrical

Results adults Roaring

1st Craig Fisby, 2nd Wayne Ashmore, 3rd Luke Payne

Kids Roaring

1st Riley Mead, 2^{nd =} Caleb Ashmore, & Ellie Mckelvie

3rd Caleb Mattsen, 4th Mya Mckelvie

Congratulations to everyone who had a go.

On another note Permolat Southland have been in contact with the branch about hut maintenance at different sites around southland if anyone's interested if you go to their Facebook page Permolat Southland and like them for more up to date info we will keep you as up to date add we can on upcoming hut maintenance jobs great way to get out into some new or old country for a look around and give something back. You should have all received your invoice from National office by now if you have not please contact them and update your contact details as that may be why you have not revived it .

NZDA National office 044996163 nationaloffice@deerstalkers.org.nz

All the best see you at the next meeting.

Cheers Shaun

Editorial

Fingers still crossed, it looks as though Kiwi Land has just seen off another Covid outbreak. This never ending saga is beginning to remind me of "Game of Thrones" and the saying of the men from the North in it "Winter is Coming". Where they talked about winters that may last years. Hopefully we will have a spring by 2022. In the meantime hopefully again we will all be able to get out for a shot this Roar, (the deer got a break last Roar) and perhaps a duck in-between covid storms.

This last week with tsunami alert we saw Kiritapu Allan front the Media in her Civil Defence roll. She appeared different, and fresh. In her roll of Conservation Minister, it was claimed in Saturdays Southland Times that she is not the stereo type Conservation Minister. She believes that economic activity and conservation can co-exist. I wish the reporter had also asked if recreational activity and conservation can also co-exist!? That is the big question which we would like an answer too. Hopefully we have not got another Idealistic, evangelistic Greenie, the signs so far are better. A Minister of Conservation should take the interests of all into consideration. As they have a third or New Zealand under their control.

With Covid the commercial Feral Venison Industry remains quiet nationwide, but there is still some local activity supplying the local market. A good chance to rethink how this industry is used to control the Game herds. For me the way forward is for the industry to be on a block and quota system. Where the operator involved is required to harvest a target number of animals from their block. (With a max and a min number given) No more as the resource will deplete, no less so that the environment is preserved. Otherwise when things improve we will have another killing rush. I have seen the boom and bust cycle several times before. In a low in the early 1990's Doc was suggesting this very thing cap in hand to the Industry. Then there was another peak, and a change in government.

What some conservations will not tell you is that some species like Kiwi and Takahe, don't thrive when things are overgrown, (nor do they like a desert). In pre European times there was sufficient large birds to keep vegetation in check, not just Moa, but the likes of Kakapo, and Takahe. These two species were so common that early explorers relied on them for meat in their travels.

Whatever things will never be the same again post covid in the world or New Zealand. So why do we persist in trying to make the New Zealand environment historic pre European again? Change is constant, history tells us that.

Good hunting Keep safe

Doug Gordon

Communication with Southland Branch by e-Mail

To all those who push the reply button to a message from the Southland Branch when they want to communicate with the Branch don't.

You get the Newsletter Editor who has been trying to manage the available membership to get communication to all. Thus has been sending out all communication. You want to send these messages to enquiries@southlanddeerstalkers.org.nz

As if the Newsletter Editor happens to be absent then he cannot spend his time forwarding on your messages to the relevant address which occurs near the front of the Newsletter.

Also please change the Subject line to what you want to talk about, it gets better attention. (I too have been guilty of not doing this.)

Thanks Doug Gordon

Sponsors

Southland Branch would like to thank its regular sponsors and recommend them to its members.

Branch Trophies

This is a series of articles on the branch trophies as found in the club rooms, with two other at Wapiti Lodge. (Note I thought there was only one trophy at the Wapiti lodge until staying at it this year)

Sambar & Sika

No history of either of these heads is known. The Sambar was located in an Invercargill second hand store and pursed for a paltry amount.

The Sika head was advertised on Trademe and picked up from a taxidermist on a 'buy now' to complete a collection of at least one of each species.
