Presidents Report

June 2021

It's been a quieter month hunting for myself then i would have liked. I would have liked to be out chasing Chamois and Thar as the Rut is well under way by now however work has got in the way of that so far, I am however heading away in 2 weeks up the head of the Whataroa hunting Thar and Chamois and really looking forward to getting away for that, unfortunately it will mean i will miss the June branch meeting my apologies for that. This month has had it,s highlights for me/family as i got my eldest daughter Ellie onto shooting her first duck and had Mya on the duck caller and dingy retrieval lucky as she was the only one light enough to float around the duck pond without the dingy sinking into the mud i tried □ . Ellie ended up with 12 for opening weekend herself with the trusty .410 so that was really cool to see and also got Ellie in behind the 223 for the first time on targets so a deer is next on the list. The club Wallaby trip is coming up and is looking to have great attendance good luck and safe hunting to all those heading away on that . Also welcome to the new Committee members Tony Erin and Wayne who put their hand up at the AGM I'm looking forward to the year to come. The National Conference is coming up next weekend Southern Lakes are hosting this year in Queenstown and its shaping up to be a great event we will keep you updated on how it goes. On a whole Natex National Executive hasn't been without its challenges for the past year and i believe they have performed very well and I'm looking forward to what they bring to the next year.

We're Lucky to have Greg and Karen from permolat southland to come to this month's meeting in conjunction with doc they help maintain and manage some of the southland huts I'm quite disappointed I'll miss this I'm sure they'll have some great info and photos of huts many of us have visited . Until next month Cheers Shaun

Editorial

What is a threatened or at risk of extinction species? I see whitebait are considered such. To me such species are few in numbers and perhaps hard to find, I think of Takahe, Kea, Kiwi, and of course the Kakapo! To name a few. How many whitebait are left? How many million's or billion's were harvested last season? What about the largely untouched stocks in Fiordland and Stewart Island? While Whitebait numbers may be down? How unhealthy is the population? How much of the localised declines is due to changed land use and environment? Are numbers stable at the current levels? To me some people are a bit loose with the terms "threatened or at risk of extinction". Perhaps sheep are in the same category their numbers have about halved?

I see there are going to be changes to Whitebaiting, but not to the extent that the previous Minister of Conservation desired. Some sense has prevailed, thanks to the current government. But again those who try to be law-abiding will be again penalised first. But not to near the extent first feared. What about those who flout the current laws? There are plenty of stories of people who ignore the current rules. This sounds a bit like the government's actions regarding Firearms. Current laws need to be enforced before making life harder for the average citizen. The criminals continue unaffected. The woke unwashed think the government is great and doing things as action has been taken.

We have too many people who believe the headlines they receive are gospel. We can all be taken in! Take the quick surveys we fill out, or the online submission form that we fill out. The questions are often shaped to produce the answers the Author desires. How many when asked whether there was as many Whitebait currently as their used to be said less now? Thus justifying the claim "threatened or at risk of extinction" in relation to Whitebait, according to the desires of the askers of the questions.

We need to conserve our environment, and our wildlife, but we should not be reckless about it. Too much of what I see proposed in the name of conservation has not been thought out enough. Take electric cars, good idea but? What effective range, how much environmental damage to build the batteries. What about the unrealistic cost of replacement batteries. If these vehicles have a much shorter operational life than current vehicles because replacing batteries is not viable. Then what about all the Carbon used to produce what has become a throwaway product (car)?

I just hope I have got you thinking and not playing follow the politically correct woke leader!

Doug Gordon

Branch Trophies

This is a series of articles on the branch trophies found in the club rooms, with two others at Wapiti Lodge. (Note I thought there was only one trophy at the Wapiti lodge until staying at it this year)

Willis McRae Red Deer

Albert Burn 1936 15 points (8 + 7) Douglas Score 334 ½

Willis McRae and his brother Findlay along with J Woods and Andrew Cowie were inaugural members of New Zealand Deerstalkers Association. During the 1930's a number of prominent Southlander deerstalkers, including Arthur Hamilton and Geoffry Orbell attended an annual dinner in Invercargill. In 1937 they presented the idea of forming an association. In May 1938, at Elmwood Gardens, 120 deerstalkers gathered for the 'official' forming of the New Zealand Deerstalkers Association.

At a special dinner held at the Elmwood in 1987, Geoffrey Orbell said “technically I suppose 1938 was the legal start but in fact it all began in 1937.”

This Red Deer head was on display at the 1937 dinner. In 1999 the head came up for auction at Thompsons auction rooms. The branch was successful at $320 but it could have been much cheaper as the only other bidder was another branch member who did not know we wanted to buy it.
